PUBLIC MEETING TO DISCUSS STREAM RESTORATION IN LATHAM PARK

WHAT:

Residents in the Latham Park area are invited to attend a public meeting to discuss the North Buffalo Creek stream restoration project scheduled to begin in 2007. The meeting will inform residents about construction impacts in Latham Park, solicit public input on the stream restoration design, and review the proposed route of a new sewer line. In order to address sewer overflows in the Latham Park and Lake Daniel Park areas, the stream restoration is part of the comprehensive North Buffalo Sanitary Sewer Project approved by the Greensboro City Council in 2003. As part of the project, more than nine miles of pipe and the construction of three new sewer pump stations will be added to City utility infrastructure.

WHEN:

Monday, September 27, 2004
6:00 p.m.

WHERE:

Water Resources Auditorium, 201 N. Greene St.
(old library building)
